by michel_etica » Fri Mar 26, 2010 12:08 pm

Hi,

I have an rtsp audio+video source, and I would like to visualize the audio spectrum ignoring the video.
I've tried (in C#) different combinations of options, such as:

Code: Select all

string[] options =
    ":audio-visual=visual",
    ":show-display=true",
    ":no-video-title-show",
    ":no-video",
```

        ":effect-list=spectrum"

    vlc.playlist.add("rtsp://whatever", "OnlyAudioSpectrum",
options);
    vlc.playlist.play();
```

or:

Code: Select all

```
    string[] options =
        ":audio-visual=spectrum",
        ":show-display=true",
        ":no-video"

    vlc.playlist.add("rtsp://whatever", "OnlyAudioSpectrum",
options);
    vlc.playlist.play();
```

Actually I've tried also more options combinations, but nothing shows up what I would see using the VLC player's option: Audio -> Show -> Spectrum (on my italian installations is Audio -> Visualizzazioni -> Spettro).

Any hint?

Thanks,

Michel

The command line (for VLC 1.0.5 under windows) to achieve the behaviour I'd like on the ActiveX is:

Code: Select all

vlc --no-video --audio-visual=visual --effect-list=spectrum rtsp://my_stream
```

Sadly, the same options passed to the ActiveX result in a black component content.
